

Flossbach von Storch - Global Quality - R²

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Flossbach von Storch - Global Quality is a global equity fund with an active, focussed investment approach. The focus is on long-term holdings in companies (real value concept), not short-term speculation. We therefore focus on the quality of the company, which is determined by the strength and predictability of the expected earnings performance. We value a strong and sustainable competitive position, a healthy balance sheet, attractive target markets and management with integrity and competence. High-quality companies tend to have above-average returns on invested capital and strong resilience to adverse developments. All investment decisions are based on a sound assessment of quality and valuation. We understand risk as an economic dimension, i.e. the danger of a permanent loss of capital as opposed to short-term fluctuations. Other in-house valuation models include ESG issues, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria defined within the framework of the Sub-Fund's investment policy are taken into account.

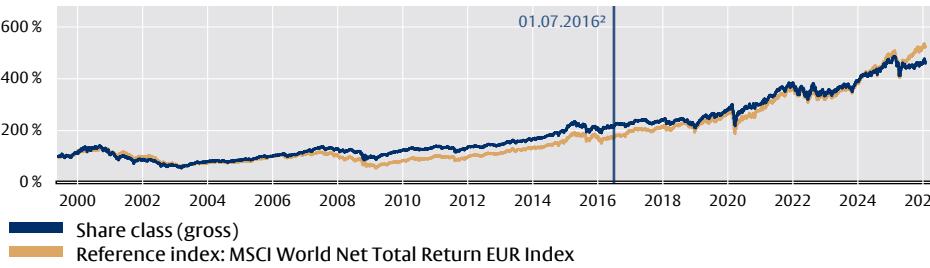

The Sub-Fund is actively managed. The portfolio is composed by the fund manager exclusively in accordance with the criteria defined in the investment policy, reviewed regularly and adjusted if necessary. The performance of the Sub-Fund is compared using the MSCI World Net Total Return Index as a benchmark. The fund manager is not linked to the index at any time when making investment decisions and the portfolio composition. Therefore, the performance of the Sub-Fund may differ significantly from the benchmark shown. The Sub-Fund is categorized as an Article 8 product under the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR). For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5 %, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The start of the year was turbulent, which was (once again) due to developments in US politics. In particular, Donald Trump's announced territorial claims on Greenland and renewed tariff threats against European countries caused temporary fluctuations on the financial markets. Overall, however, the equity market remained largely unimpressed. The MSCI World global equity index rose by 0.9% in euro terms over the month. However, European investors suffered in January from a further depreciation of the US dollar, which lost 0.9% against the euro over the month. Just as the developments mentioned above all echo strongly from 2025, another theme also continued: the euphoria surrounding artificial intelligence (AI) continued to have a significant impact on share-price developments on the equity market. Accordingly, the three largest positive contributions to the portfolio came from our investments in Applied Materials, a US supplier to semiconductor manufacturers; Atlas Copco, a Swedish industrial group that supplies vacuum pumps for semiconductor production, among other things; and Alphabet, Google's parent company, whose business also includes the operation of data centres and Gemini, one of the leading AI models. Atlas Copco also reported figures for the past financial year, which still reflect mixed demand in its end markets but show a positive trend in terms of order intake. The three largest negative contributions came from investments where enterprise software is at the heart of the business: Microsoft, SAP and Roper Technologies. Here, investors discussed intensively the extent to which AI could weigh on the companies' business models in the future. Against this backdrop, the shares reacted very negatively to what we consider to be decent to even strong figures for the past quarter. The main reasons for this appear to be a slight slowdown in growth (which remains at a high level in the case of SAP and Microsoft) and, in the case of Microsoft, the announcement of a significant increase in spending on the construction of data centres.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + These funds aim to exploit growth opportunities on global equity markets.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Equity markets and thus also unit values can experience severe fluctuations in response to market developments. The result can be a fall in the trading price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a negative impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.
